Sen. Sanborn touts agenda that is ‘Working Today For Michigan’s Tomorrow’

Lansing – State Sen. Alan Sanborn (R-Richmond Twp.) said he is looking forward to working on the Senate Republican’s 2004 agenda, titled “Working Today for Michigan’s Tomorrow.”

The legislative agenda focuses on creating jobs, strengthening families and continuing to improve the quality of Michigan schools while also bringing state spending in line with existing revenues.

“This is a bold and proactive caucus agenda, one based on Michigan’s priorities,” said Senate Majority Leader Ken Sikkema, R-Wyoming. “This agenda makes it clear that Senate Republicans are going to work for what’s best for Michigan’s families, not what’s easiest for state government.”

Sanborn is working on consumer protection legislation aimed at curbing video voyeurism, the capture or transmission of compromising images of a person who has reasonable expectation of privacy without his or her knowledge.

“This is an opportunity for us to enact reforms in Michigan that will improve our economy and our quality of life,” Sanborn said. “Our agenda contains common sense, fiscally responsible legislation that is good for Michigan.”

The 2004 Senate Republican Caucus Agenda covers a broad range of topics and priorities focused on:

- Improving Michigan’s competitiveness, leading to a healthier economy and more job opportunities;
- Protecting families from health threats, criminal predators and unfair financial burdens;
- Educating youth by stretching education dollars, promoting reform and accountability and ensuring Michigan’s children get the best education;

-more-

- Preserving Michigan's beauty through common sense land-use regulations, promoting recycling and limiting out-of-state trash; and
- Building a healthy Michigan – in terms of residents and the economy – by lowering healthcare costs while increasing accessibility, reducing state spending, and continuing Senate oversight of government activities.

Sanborn said one of the first initiatives undertaken this year involves the upcoming announcement of JOBS: Phase II. JOBS – Job Opportunities for Business Success – is an action plan to spur job growth and economic investment. JOBS II picks up where JOBS left off at the end of last year.

“Now is the time for action,” Sanborn said. “We need to position Michigan as quickly as possible to take advantage of the national economic recovery.”
